The Widow.

A widow is a dangerous thing, With soft, black, shining curls, And looketh more bewitching Than a host of romping girls : Her laugh is so delicious-

So knowing, clear, beside, You'd never dream her thinking Soon to become a bride.

Her dress, though made of sables, Gives roundness to her form-A touch of something thoughtful, A witching, winning charm : And when she sits down by you, With quiet and easy grace-

A ten: may fall unbidden, Or a smile light up her face. Her voice is soft-melodious-And lute-like in its tone;

She sometimes sighs "'tis dreadful, To pass through life alone." And then she'll tell you, you remind her, Of the lov'd one dead and gone; Your step, your form, your features :

Thus the widow will run on. Oh! listen, yet be careful, For well she plays her part-Her lips distil the nectar That doth enslave the heart : Be guarded, or she'll win you, With sighs, and smiles, and tears;

I' faith she'll wear the breeches too And box your silly ears .- Mobile Herald.

A Sour Child.-A prisoner before the Police Court of Philadelphia, gave the following sketch of himself: "I was born weeping-my daddy used to chew wormwood before I was born, and my mother made a practice of getting drunk on ruar splendidfarm, containing 500 acres of first rate land, situ vinegar. When I was a little boy, nobody north of Edinburgh, Johnson county, Indiana, with fine water wouldn't allow me to nuss their children; for they sed I made'm dyspeptic—I looked so completely sour—so they sed. When I went to school I was also in for the lickens; and I have a looked so they sed. When I went to school I was also in for the lickens; and I have a looked so the season one to three years, which, when added to the colosed land, will make shout 240 acres. It is thought that there is one of the best make shout 240 acres. It is thought that there is one of the best left me in three months. There's no use of askin' why.
